A great deal of impatience is maniested at the inaction of our army on the otomac. In this we do not sympathize. t is the duty of McClellan to run no risk at hat point; not even the remotest. The dense of the capital must not be put at hazard and made to depend on the result of a battle. The Bull Run affair was only not fatal ecause the enemy had not the courage to take alvantage of it. The Confederate forces can be moved from the Potomac without risking a general engagement; and this is the policy, no doubt, of General Mc-Clellan. When he moves his main army he will be sure of the result. In that course he is wise. It is his duty to pursue it and regard no outside pressure.

The Confederates are wasting their time, and eating themselves up at Manassas. They can take up lodging there indefinitely, and be no nearer their object. There are points to be gained remote from Washington, and more fatal to the Confederate rebellion than the occupation of Manassas It is true, if the Confederates could take Washington, they would achieve a great success; but the Federals would not make as much by taking Manassas. The prizes are wastly unequal, and it is bad policy to stake one against the other. Secure Wash ington then; let there be no risks about it. The work of scattering the Confederate troops from that point can be done elsewhere. It is important, however, to have no more such follies as occurred at Edward's Ferry anywhere. We shall not criticise generalship; but we can say what we please of this affair without presumption, as no one will pretend there was any generalship

We are glad to see that in this State and Missouri the Cenfederates have failed so far. Let the fleet do its duty on the coast, and the Federal troops from the West will meet it on the Atlantic; and these Manassa; troops must return to the South or give up trusted to General Stone. These facts are that region.

We can afford to wait at Washington longer than they can stay at Manassas.

The Secessionists have been a good while on the hunt for their rights. Some of them from this State have joined the Southto get their rights. We should like to have an expose of their success in the hunt, for the encouragement of other people. They could get along bravely if they could get all the rights in the world; them from the few persons here who witbut other people have an idea that they too have rights, and therein is a collision, and serious, icopardy of rights on all sides. So far, the right is no better than the right to shear the wolf. There is a great loss of blood and treasure, great anxiety and distress, and no profit. The goal they aimed at recedes the further they travel.

What is worse than all, success will bring nothing-no better Government than they and their fathers have had. They can't in the face of a strong rebel force, and succeeded most admirably, not a man being hope for better. It is not to be found in the history of the world; and it is not in store for mankind. The Leesburg Battle.

ADDITIONAL FACES ABOUT THE CONFLICT-HOW THE FAILURE OCCURRED.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25, 1861. General McClellan is back at his headquarters, and the attempt to cross the Po-tomac at Edwards' Ferry is acknowledged to be a complete failure. The rebels can say with perfect truth that they drove the Federal troops back to their own side of the river with heavy slaughter. There has been a disposition in some quarters to blame Col Baker for his conduct in the battle. It has been charged by some that he was rash, ambitious of military renown, and led his men into unnecessary danger. There is no foundation whateverfor this criticism. Upon consulting persons who were present at the battle, and others here who knew of the entire plan, I feel confident that the facts are as follows: First, that General McClellan issued the general order for the crossing of the Potomac and a reconnoisance upon its Virginia shore. Second, that all the details of the matter were left to General Stone, who was allowed to use his own judgment even in the time of crossing. It was prob-ably intimated to him that the time had come for crossing at Edwards' Ferry, but it was understood that if he perceived great danger in the movement he could so report, and at least temporarily postpone it. Under these circumstances General Stone ordered Colonel Devins to cross and make a careful reconnoissance. He did so, got into a severe skirmish with the rebels, and Col. Baker was sent over to his relief. There is no evidence in the world to show rashness on the part of Baker, but, on the contrary, it is certain that he crossed the river under circumstances of great risk and danger, with the generous object of rescuing the poor fellows who were caught in a had trap.

The stragetic movement was McClellan's the execution of that movement was en-

As for the particulars of the crossing of the river, so far as it is possible to gather nessed it, it would seem as if the act was full of risk and danger. A scow and two or three boats were all the means of trans port. The river was high, the weather every way bad, and not only was there ar almost total lack of means of transit across the river, but, after a small force had succeeded in landing, they do not seem to have guarded the Virginia end of the crossing The most brilliant part of the whole performance was the final retreat at night of the force that had, subsequently to the battle, been thrown across. This was done Gen. Stone was the last man to leave the Virginia shore, and once more his ait.

The Government is urged immediately to put the roads in and about Washington in a good condition, so that access to the various too late. Such a thing as foresight seems to be entirely out of the question. Two if they were gravelled during the fall, they be put into a good condition for Several regiments have been sent down Gen. Sickles, and there are no fears of an attempt of the rebels to cross there. Whether upper Potomac remains to be seen; but Generals Banks and Stone, it is said, have no fears of it, and would like nothing better than to have the rebels try it.

REBEL OUTBAGES.—We are oreditably informed that a band of rebels went to the residence of Mr. Gabriel Davis, a venerable and respectable farmer, between sixty and seventy years of age, who resides in Shelby, just over the line from this county, week before last, at the dead hour of night, and took him and one of his sons out and hung them twice, until they were nearly dead. The cause of this diabolical outrage was, that one of Mr. Davis' sons and another young man had joined the Federal forces and had been furnished by them with arms They had hid their arms, unknown to Mr. Davis and family, until they could get read; to join their commands.

The rebels, hearing of this, went to Mr.

Davis' residence, as above stated, and demanded their arms. The parties that had secreted the arms both being absent, and having informed no one of their secret, of course both Mr. Davis and his son knew nothing of their whereabouts, and told the man's pillow, or soothe his distress, other rebels so. But this would not satisfy them, so they marched the old man and his son off in different directions, and hung them to make them reveal the secret.

After being hung the second time until life was nearly extinct, the old man was cut down, and when he came to he saw a group tanding around him, who again demanded of him the whereabouts of the arms. The forth the following old man told them again that he knew nothing of the arms, but if they would let him off and come again on a certain night, if he could find out anything about the much coveted arms, he would tell them.

On these conditions they let him off, and the poor and decrepid old man left for the home from which he had been so ruthlessly torn, more dead than alive.

The Union men hearing of the conditions on which he had been released, repaired to his house on the appointed night and waited to give the rebels a proper reception, but hearing of this concluded that "wisdom was the better part of valor," and never

UNION MEN DECLARING AGAINST THE CON-FEDERACY-A NEW DECLARATION OF INDE-

Our correspondent at Hatteras sends us to-day the most important news that we have yet received from any of the Confederate States. The Union men of North Carolina are beginning to act openly against the Confederates. They held a convention recently in Hyde county, and published the following declaration of independence, which our correspondent has furnished us from the original manuscript. This, we from the original manuscript. This, we presume, is the first publication of this important and able document:

UNION MEN OF NORTH CAROLINA. The Union men of North Carolina are moving in earnest. A convention was held in Hyde county, the largest county in the State, on the 12th of October, in the year 1861 (in the old church in which the famou Mecklenburg Convention was held, and the first declaration of independence declared May 20, 1774), and numerously attended.

[From the Louisville Courier, Oct. 16th.] The following, which we copy from late number of the Nashville Union and American, will be read with profound interest everywhere and especially throughout Kentucky:

INTERESTING SCENE IN THE CONFEDERATE Court .- We have heretofore noticed the arrival in our city of the distinguished and venerable Judge Monroe, of Kentucky, and we also announced, a few days since, that he had taken the oath of allegiance to the Confederate Government. Judge Monroe, attended by several friends, presented him-self in open Court, before Hen. Judge Humphreys (who now presides in the Dishaving for some years presided with high honorin the District Court of the old Union). The following are the proceedings as extract ed from the records of the Court on this

THURSDAY, Oct. 3, 1861. Present, the Hon. West H. Humphreys, by the emphatic overwhelming vote of the Monroe, late of Kentucky, appeared in cualified electors of the Commonwealth in Court and said: If the Court please:-It is agreed, we know, by all Jurists and men of common sense that the obligations of protection by the Government and allegiance of the ci zens or subjects, are reciprocal and depend-ent, and that, therefore, whenever the government has ceased to afford the proposition to the purposes of a seceret and infamous conspiracy, which had pre determined the destruction of the Union, regardless of popular dissent, and, in the unplished the revolution, may adopt the new government, which they believe will best insure the protection of their rights and promote their welfare; or any proper portion of the people may separate themselves and the territory they possess. and the territory they occupy-"secede" and form such new government within their own dominion as they think proper; or any number of such oppressed people may em-igrate and adopt themselves citizens of any other government. In this state of affairs. I elected to expa-triate myself and emigrate, and I resigned the office I held under the government, and departed its territory. In doing this, having the right to choose the country of my adoption, I chose the "Confederate States." I was born within their territory, approve their Constitution and institutions, admire their people and their statesmen, and believe that the composition and char-acter of their people, and position and cir-eumstances of their country are such that it may be confidently expected their public affairs will always be administered by high, onorable and able men.

I have unbounded confidence in their ability to maintain their independence, and that here will be performed all the duties of a good Government to its citizens. I am, therefore, ready to take the oath to support the Constitution of the Confederacy, and of

Whereupon the following oath was administered to him:

I, Thomas B. Monroe, hereby declare that, having renounced my allegiance to the "United States," I hereby adopt myself a citizen of the "Confederate States of America," and solemnly swear that I will support their Constitution, and will true allegiance bear to its Government so long as I am a citizen thereof.

The Court said: The Court receives with the liveliest satisfaction your renunciation of allegiance to the United States and your declaration that State to be made subject to the payment of exhorbitant and illegal taxes and imposts you will bear true allegiance to the Confed-

Confederate States. After with the Court adjourned.

We are persuaded that there have They have suspended the laws and their red but few scenes more interesting than execution without warrant or necessity, and the one above described. To be appreciated properly the reader should bear in mind that Judge Monroe has been for some forty years a jurist of great eminence; had pre-sided in the District Court of the United States for Kentucky for more than twenty years with great credit to himself and most peneficially to the public-that he had been driven forth from his long cherished home by the most abominable tyranny the world has known, and that he is now on his way to the State of Virginia, where he was born, and whose honored soil holds the sacred ashes of a dozen generations of his ances-

> It was a scene worthy to form one of the most imposing and captivating pages in the history of the Confederacy of the South. A dramatic historian, like Macaulay, would illustrate and adorn the progress of this great revolution, with the picture presented by that venerable jurist, just escaped from the bloodhounds of the despot, who had driven him from a State in which he had lived, the light of the law, irreproachable as a man, beloved by his companions, honored by his profession, and venerable in years, voluntarily and proudly abjuring an allegiance which no longer returned to him the rights of a citizen, but made him an bsequious slave, and with all the dignity of one thus honored and respected, and conscious of this rectitude, appearing in that presence, and with the pure eloquence of truth, offering the remaining years of his life to the service of the new Government, which had arisen as the successor of the old Union, as it was in its purer and brighter days. By this act the venerable Judge, now seventy years old, does not retire from the responsibilities and duties of a citizen, but transfers them from the Des-potism of the North to the Confederacy of the South. Having two sons and two grandsons in the service of the Confederate States, he expresses himself ready to resume his citizenship in these States, now struggling for their independence, which includes, no only his civil duties, but every obligation that may devolve upon any other citizen, to defend his country against the invaders, and to chastise them into justice.

It was a scene worthy of the painter's pencil and the historian's pen, and cannot fail to impress every one with its imposing dignity. BREACH OF PROMISE. - A breach of promise case of unusual interest is said to have occurred recently in one of the Courts of Western Iowa-Mr. James S. Mann vs. Susan Long. Mr. Mann had engaged to marry Miss Long, but actually married Miss Sarah Jane Little. This is another proof of the truth of Goldsmith's couplet-"Man(n) wanis but LITTLE here below, Nor wants that little Long.'

The officers succeeded in their mission so far as to arrest twenty-one, out of about fifty persons who have been engaged in this rascally business. The land is said to belong to our fellowcitizen, Cuthbert Bullitt.

More Troops.—Capt. Graham's cavalry company, 78 rank and file, arrived at Jeffersonville last evening from Indianapolis. They are a fine looking body of men, and are well armed with Sharpe's carbines, 22 loads, and two revolvers, twelve loads for each man, with fine horses, tents, &c., all complete. They expect to come over to the city this morning, and go into camp at Oak" land for drill.

One of the members informs us that there are about 1,600 cavalry at Indianapolis, all destined for this point so soon as they can be armed and equipped. Four companies of them expect to leave this week.

Bad Boy.-We learn that a certain boy down town is in the habit of playing some rather naughty tricks. One of them is to go into a yard where the Democrat is lying, before the resident has risen, steal it, and return about breakfast time, sell him his own paper and decamp; some other morning waiting till the man of the house has gone away, return with the stolen paper and sell it to the lady of the house. These may be sharp tricks, boy, but they will do you harm; be careful.

The News.

Our last night's dispatches give us the startling intelligence, in a long rigmarole, that the President of the United States has published in some New York paper two long advertisements, and the said dispatches treat as to the sum, substance and phraseology, as if all the world would rejoice to hear that New York had received two advertisements from Washington.

Our dispatches further tell us that the Evening Post contradicts the Tribune's story about Commodore Dupont's private Secretary. The foundation of which, was that some crazy fellow had disappeared. ing News supply all the dispatches, local And the Navy Department states that the and general news. Those who wish to keep story is without a shadow of foundation.

Lieut. Scott, in command of the Keystone State, has been ordered under arrest for not pursuing the Sumpter as ordered till he found her. It is very evident that some of our officers are thick headed.

Later dispatches state that the New York Evening Commercial has information direct, confirming the Tribune's story. But we presume that if Commodore Dupont had informed his officers, and the officers of the Vanderbilt, that his papers were all stolen, he would hardly have done so before notibetter able to keep our readers posted as to fying the Navy Department, and the Navy Department's statement is, at noon yesterday, much later than any other reports.

Our San Francisco dates are to Sunday evening. Preparations were on foot for a great celebration over the completion of the Pacific telegraph, when the news of Col. Baker's death was received. California politicians think the Governor of Oregon will appoint Benj. Starke, of Portland, as Ba ker's successor. Oregon dates of the 19th represent the mining news as very flattering, another gold fever is likely to be the result. A great fire in San Francisco last Saturday destroyed a woolen factory valued at $60,000.

By way of San Francisco we have, this morning, late and interesting intelligence from Calcutta and Japan. The Russians in connection with the Walkers with the have taken possession of Isos Sinta Island, > Russia and the United States will yet control the world.

> Letters from Campbellsville state that Col. Grider's regiment has left that place, and that there remain there at present Colonels Hobson's and Pennebaker's regiments, about one thousand strong, and that they are rapidly filling up-all under the command of Gen. Ward. We also learn that since the troops fell back from Greensburg the rebels have recommenced their raids, and are robbing and destroying wherever they have any show.

> Cel. Jno. McCrea, formerly an officer in the British army, but for the last twelve or fifteen years residing in South Carolina and drilling the forces of that State, passed through this city yesterday with his son on the way to Camp Wild Cat, where young McCrea, about 18 years old, will volunteer and taste a soldiers life.

The New York Tribune's special correspondent at Washington regales us with another of his sensation stories-that Commodore DuPont's private secretary had ly on a dark night. There was a party of absconded from the fleet off Hampton Roads, the Court House. A shell howled up the with all the maps, plans, charts, and even street and exploded near them. The cap sealed orders for the great expedition, as if Commodore DaPont had no more sense, no more discretion, than to place such important documents in the charge of his private secretary, or where he could obtain them; and as if the means of absconding from the fleet were as easy as walking out of one's ewn door. The Herald's correspondent also treats us to the story that a captain of one of the transports had opened his instructions, and divulged the destination of the fleet-just as if the captains of all those vessels were not men of prudence, men accustomed to obey orders-divulged the destination-but to whom, when, where, &c., said Herald correspondent saith not. If he discovered so much, how did his ingenuity come to stop without learning all the particulars? The fact is, the Herald and Tribune, like the two blades of a pair of shears, are both aiding the rebellion in every possible way-each cutting against the other, but always managing to do something intended to injure the cause of the government. We wait for more un lie-able information before we pin our faith to either

DISTRESSING ACCIDENT .- As the cars were coming from Indianapolis yesterday morning, on their way to Jeffersonville, with Capt. Graham's cavalry company on board, when about ten miles beyond Seymour one of the company was so seriously injured that he has since died. The train ran upon the switch to let the freight train go up, when one of this cavalry company, named Robert West, got off. In getting on again. We find in the Cincinnati Commercial of yesterday, the following interesting particulars of the fight at West Liberty, of which we gave a short statement yesterday JEFFERSON, BETWEEN FOURTH AND morning :

THE FIGHT AT WEST LIBERTY, KENTUCKY-PARTICULARS OF THE SKIRMISH-COLONEL LEN A. HARRIS' REGIMENT IN FINE CONDI-

Captain James Laughlin, of Company B. Konkle's battery, and his orders were to see the battery safe into General Nelson's com mand, and then to return, unless wanted for special service for a day or two. Capt. Laughlin has expected to serve as the body guard of General Mitchel, under the anticination that General M. would take command of the column advancing to Eastern Ten-nessee. These facts will account for the presence of Capt. Laughlin in the action of West Liberty and his return.

Col. Len Harris, with his regiment, 2nd Ohio, two guns of Capt. Konkles' Ohio bat-tery, and Capt. Laughlin's cavalry, set out at three o'clock Tuesday afternoon of last week, from a point thirty-six miles this side of West Liberty, for a march upon that town, ntending to surprise it at daylight the following morning. It was reported that the rebels, several hundred strong, were advantageously posted in the neighborhood of West Liberty, which is situated on the head waters of the Licking river, is the county seat of Morgan county, and thirty-five miles from Prestonsburg, the headquarters of the rebels in Eastern Kentucky. The gallant boys of the Ohio Second pressed forward with great spirit and vigor, but a heavy rain came up and fell for six hours without intermission, making the roads so bad as to cause detention. The men toiled forward steadily all night, wading the Licking river-the wa ter up to their belts-three times. At eight o'clock Wednesday morning they had marched 36 miles, and the bushwhackers of the enemy, posted on a rocky hillside and in a corn field, opened fire upon the advance, doing ne injury, as they were in manifest tr pidation. Colonel Harris saw that the fight was to be a mere skirmish, and that the first thing to be done was to clean the enemy out of the bushes. Giving directions to the artillery (one gun had been left behind, owing to the wretched condition of the roads, and there was but one on the spot) to send a few shell into the town, and a suspicious neck of the woods, the Colonel gave his horse in charge of a servant, and went into the bushes with his flank compa-nies, which were armed with Enfield rifles. They had a most exciting hunt after the rebels, who were popped over in all directions, and driven like a flock of frightened animals through the bushes and fields. The Captain says Colonel Harris and his men re urned from this rebel hunt covered all over with burrs and Spanish needles. Not one of the boys was as much as scratched by an enemy's ball, though they had killed seventeen rebels, most of whom were men living in that vicinity. There was no mistake about the killing, for coffins have been the articles most in demand since that time in the little town of West Liberty. Three well known citizens of the town were killed, and another, the leading secesh of the place, was seen running away, his right arm dangling, as it had been shattered by a rifle ball. In the first onset, one platoon of Captain Laughlin's cavalry had been sharply engaged with a party of the enemy posted on a steep and rocky hill. One rebel was shot dead there, and another wounded. Lieut Sam. W. Fordyse, of the cavalry, was struck by arifle ball in the left leg, the ball glancing from the bone, inflicting a painful wound. The rebels were terrified at the bombshells sent screeching through the woods, and fled as if they had discovered the devil suddentain shouted "Disperse!" and there was a wild scamper. One fellow, well mounted, and armed with a good rifle, lingered behind, and fired with deliberate aim at Col. Harris, as the latter rode into the town. He luckily missed his sim. The moment he fired he put his horse to the top of his speed to make his escape, but a volley was fired after him, and he fell headlong. On coming up to him he was found stretched in the road insensible. A close examination of his person disclosed the fact that though his clethes had been cut in several places by balls, the only wound was a bullet hole through his right hand. The fellow was secured. The town was deserted by its inhabitants, only a few ne-groes remaining behind. The people had been taught that the Union soldiers would be guilty of the most awful atrocities. Several women made their appearance on Thursday, trembling with cold and fear, and said that they had remained in the woods all night after the fight. They were afraid they would be ill-used if they were in the power of the Union soldiers, and were greatly surprised and gratified to learn that they had been mistaken. The poor creatures had been told by the Secesh that the Abolition soldiers rejoiced to kill Southern babies, and were in the habit of carrying little children about on their bayonets in the towns which they took; and this was actually believed.

Friday morning, when Capt. Laughlin left, the people at West Liberty were more reconciled. They had received a lesson Col. Harris was expecting orders to join Gen. Nelson, to take part in the expedition to Prestonsburg. Gen. Nelson was at Hazal Green, with two regiments of Ohio troops, and Col. Metcalf's Kentuckians, and there was another regiment of Ohioans at Mount Sterling, pressing forward. Col. Harris was within thirty-five miles of Prestonsburg, and Gen. Nelson, ten or fifteen miles south of Col. Harris, and about the same distance from Prestonsburg. It was reported the rebels were about 3,000 strong at that place, and without artillery, though it was understood that six pieces for them were on the way, through the mountains, from Virginia. Harris' regiment was in excellent health and spirits, and anxious to stir up something more exciting in the way of a

JESSE BAYLES,

TELEGRAPHIC.

New York, October 29.-Two advertisements are published this morning. The first at the instance of the President of the United States, commanding the Marshal to United States, commanding and attach certain real and personal property of Wm. Shields, and to give notice persons claiming the same, or knowing or having anything to say why the same should not be condemned to the use of the United States, to appear before the District Attor-ney, on the 28th of November next, to interpose their claims, and to make their allegatives in that behalf.

The second advertisement, published by order of the court, is in accordance with the first, and sets forth that Mr. Shield, formerly of Washington, some months ago removed with his family to Richmond, where he has been residing ever since, and where he has been, and now is, engaged in the insur-rection and resistance to the laws of the United States of America, now existing in said State and in secret correspondence with the enemies of said United States residing in the city of Washington and elsewhere, and transmitting to them money and other valuables, and receiving the same from them in return, which has been ap-plied in part to aid and abet and promote the said insurrection and resistance to the laws and those who are engaged therein; and the said Mr. Shield has knowingly used and employed and consented to the use and employment of the property herein before more particularly described to aid, abet and promote the same insurrection and the parties engaged therein.

The Post says a morning journal alarms its readers by a report that the private Secretary of Commodore Dupont had deserted to the enemy. Our own correspondent with the naval expedition mentions incidentally, as a matter of small importance, that a master's mate on one of the ships, a crazy fellow, had suddenly dis-appeared, and it was feared that he had, in a moment of temporary aberration of mind, wandered beyond our lines, where he would be shot by the enemy. We suppose this is the ground of fact on which the startling rumor was founded.'
Lieutenant Scott, who was in command of the Keystone State, has been placed under arrest at Philadelphia, for bringing his vessel to that port, when he was ordered to follow the Sumter until he found her. This evening's Commercial prints the following: A prominent business firm in the city received to day a letter from the fleet about to sail on the Southern expedition which partially confirms the statement made this morning in regard to the defection of a prominent naval officer and the loss of the sealed orders of the Commodore. The letter "Dear Sir: Last night a surgeon from the Vanderbilt came on board our vessel, and reported that the Commodore had been robbed of all his private papers, plans, charts, and sealed orders by his private clerk. The traitor was supposed to have gone over to the rebels. The effect of this new turn events may give to the whole en-terprise cannot be conjectured." SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 27, 7 P. M.-The announcement of the completion of the telegraph line, at 7 o'clock last evening, sent a thrill of joy through the community. Preparations for firing a salute and other demonstrations in honor of the event, were in readiness, when the second dispatch from the east announced the death of Gen. Baker, whom almost every citizen here regarded as personal friend. Universal joy was thus turned to sorrow, and the celebration postponed. Most glowing accounts of the richness of the Ner Perces mines and new gold discoveries over a rich expanse of country, are published in the Portland papers. Gold, in increasing quantities, continues to arrive from the mines. The same character distinguishes the news published in the Victoria papers from the British Celumbia mines. News from these sources never was more exciting. There will probably be another stampede north next spring, equal to the Frazer river excitement of 1859.

EDWARD'S FERRY, VIRGINIA, October 29. All was quiet last night. No pickets were brown over the river, but those from this side heard the shou's of the rebels all night on the opposite side, and saw their fires thickly scattered in the woods along the shores. Their concentrating point was a clump of trees on the bluff, where our troops had constructed a picket station, near the spot where our artillery shelled them during the skirmish on Tuesday last, when our troops were withdrawn from the Virginia side. On Wednesday night the 16th Indians occupying the most advanced and exposed position, were not aware of any withdrawal until the rest had been successfully formed. They lay upon the cold ground, almost frozen, with well loaded muskets in their frozen, with well loaded muskets in their hands, every moment expecting an over powering assault from the concealed and verpowered enemy, whose numbers were known to exceed our own by many thousands; yet the only mourning uttered by these hardy sons of the northwest was at the orders for return, without disputing the ground, inch by inch, with their adversa-

This regiment brought with them two prisoners—the owner of the mill on Goose Creek and his son—who, it was alleged, had prepared combustibles to fire oridge over Goose Creek, but were pre-vented from carrying out their disign by the sudden descent upon the bridge of our skirmishers. The efficers of the night had a conversation with a prisonor, a highly intelligent gentleman, and a non-commis-sioned officer of one of the Mississippi regiments engaged in the affair at Ball's Bluffs. He left Leesburg on Saturday night, where there were about five regi-ments. There were no defensible works at Lee-burg, but every approach was fortified commanding the river and land routes. The prisoner was astonished to learn that our army was not almost entirely composed of Abolitionists and radical Republicans, and that our main object was other than the emancipation of slaves throughout the South. He said if the fact was generally known to the working people of the South that our sole object was to preserve the Union intact, there would be a revolution in the Confederate army, and peace would be restored. He was surprised beyond measure to be assured that the Breckinridge Democrats compose a large portion

River Matters.

ARRIVALS-Major Anderson, Cincinnati; Dove, Ky. River; Trio, Madison; Gold-

.....The river was slowly falling last evening, with five feet five inches water in the canal by the mark.

.....Yesterday was a real October dayblustry, yet warm—the dust flying in clouds, blinding and choking, and was, we judge, the opening day of "Indian summer."

.....Our wharf, in a business point of view, presents a very disconsolate appearance—four or five steamers lying to—very few people moving about, and but little freight to be seen. The lows has been loading for several days for Pittsburg, and will possibly get off to day with a fair trip, con-sidering the dull times. The Argonaut has also commenced loading, but with those two exceptions, there is nothing doing. The Dove left for Kentucky river with a light freight; her down trips are somewhat better, as she brings in considerable quantities of wheat, corn, fruits, &c. The Trio left for Madison with some freight and passengers.

..... The Belle Creole passed up from below heavily loaded for Cincinnati, and the Golden State left Portland for Cairo and intermediate ports with a very respectable trip in freight and passengers.

FOR CINCINNATI -The Superior is the mailboat at noon to day for Cincinnati.

FOR HENDERSON. -The Star Gray Eagle, Capt. Donnelly, is the packet this afternoon at five o'clock for Henderson and all way points. J. A. Lusk will be found at the clerk's desk. ... The St. Louis Republidan, of Sunday, has the following items: "The river here is still falling slowly. "The Illinois river is falling steadily, with five feet water in the channel from Lasalle to the mouth.

"The upper Mississippi is falling all the way down from St. Paul. There is 41 feet water on the upper and 2½ feet on the lower rapids. Below Keokuk there is 6 feet. "The Missouri river is falling from Lex. ington down, with four feet in the channel.

'The weather is fine and cool. Business promises to be dull on the landing "The W. H. Russell, which started out from this port a day or two ago for Missouri river, was found to be leaking to such an extent as to damage the freight in the hole, and she put in at the upper end of the levee to calk. The Russell had been lying up for three or four months, and the oakum had rotted out of her seams, which admitted the water pretty freely when she came to be loaded. She will be ready to leave for the Missouri river very shortly.

The neighborhood of Warsaw, Ky., has been considerably annoyed of late by a gang of secession rascals led by a reckless fellow named Luther Green, and all sorts of petty outrages have been committed on Union men by these outlaws. On Saturday last, however, a complete non plus was put to their proceedings by a little band of Union volunteers, numbering eighteen or twenty, under Captain Howe, who is recruiting at Camp Boyle, on Paint Lick creek, near Warsaw. On the morning of that day two soldiers of Captain Howe's company were surpr sec by Green's gang and made prisoners, and it is stated that they were about to be hung when the news reached camp. The little party mentioned immediately started in pursuit, and after a brisk walk of six miles they came in view of the rebel party, which numbered thirty or forty, and a skirmish ensued. The rebels took to flight, but two of them-Robert Hernden and T. J. Hughes—were shot dead, and Green was taken prisoner The two Union soldiers were recovered and a number of small arms and a quantity of personal property was secured. Green arrived here yesterday and was sent to Camp

Young Men of Kentucky TO ARMS!

ONE HUNDRED YOUNG MEN WANTED TO FILL A COMPANY OF CAVALRY TO SERVE IN A REGIMENT COMMANDED BY

Col. Jas. S. Jackson, Gen. R. Anderson.

THE TIME FOR MEN TO COME TO THEUR Country's call has now arrived. Kentucky, through her Legislature, has again proclaimed the loyalty to the Government framed by our fathers. Three times have the people, by overwhelming majorities, announced to the world their opposition to revolution, and their determination not to be dragged into the surging sea of Secession.

But, with utter disregard for the known sentiment of the State, the vandals of the Sonth, bent on destruction, are upon us like the locusts of Egypt, devouring and devastating murdering and pillaging. They come with fire and sword. As a dictator their leader thrusts kimself upon us, and around him come armed thousands to revolution and bloodshed that they have ever repudicated.

scourge a free people of a great State, into mesares of revolution and bloodshed that they have ever repuddated.

Kentucky, through her people's representatives, has refused to embrace and hurled back the bloody principles taught by the invader, and is it to be said in summing up the history of these great States, that Kenucky, proud, brave, mighty Kentucky, had not the unfinehing courage to drive back invasion, and that her people qualled when danger stood at their door? Molitater let time record that, our glorious Common wealth, like a warrier, sprang firmly in the field, and with Titar arm and manly strength, gave blow for blow, both thick and fast, till every invading foot had field her soil.

I want men of courage to join me in this undertaking. This for the young and vigoreus to flight the Sattles of their country, and announce to coming generations that the attempted conquest of Kentucky was met by her some as it should have been—with steel to steel.

Men joining my company will receive pay fom the time they are mustered in. Good horses, blankets, uniforms and arms will be provided, together with everything necessary for camp life. My men shall all be made comfortable at once.

The country says come—yours State says come—aumanity and civilization say come, and strike for all that man holds dear.

Bon't Delay, but Purify the Blood!

DR. WEAVER'S CANKER AND SALIT RHEUM SYRUP, for the cure of canker. Salt Rheum, Erystpelas, scordinous Diseases, Chicaneous Eruptions, and every kind of disease arising from an impure state of the blood. The most effective Blood Purifier of the Nineteenth Century.

It is the prescription of an educated Physician, and all who are affilicted with any of the above-named disease, should use it without delay. Such letters as the following are often received:

Jeromerelle, Athland co., Ohio, Nov. 20, 1360.

Messrs. J. N. Harris & Co. Oincinnati, Ohio:
GENTLEMEN—I deem it a duty as well as a oleasure to inform you what Da WEAVER'S SYRUP and CE. RATE has done for me, and hope this letter may come to the notice of persons similarly sillicted. In the year 1360 I was attacked with tetter or some kindred disease, on both my legs, which extended until from my knees to my feet was one raw sore. I consulted and obtained medicines and prescriptions from nearly all the physicians in this victority, but obtained no relief. Your agent at this place, Mr. Hoffman, recommended me to try the S, rup and Cerate, which I fortunately did, and am now a sound and well man by their use.

With great gratitude, I remain yours truly.

JOHN WEIRBAUGHT.

Mr. Weirbaught being a well known gentleman of Ashland co, mases this information most reliable. By taking the Syrup as directe, it will drive the disease from the system, and where once used it has never these known to fail of effecting a permanent cure of Oid Sores, Tetter and Ringworm, Scald Head, Chiliblains and Frost Eites, Earbers' Itch, Chapped and Cracked Hands or Uns. Blotches or Pimples on the Face. And for Sore Ryes and Sore Nipples the Cerate is the only thing required to cure. It should be kept in the house of every family.

B. Price of Sirup, Si per bottle, Cerate, 25 cents. Directions accompany each bottle, Soid by Medicine Desires generally.
